Pre-Performance Talk Series
Love the theatre even more.

Dr. Emily Stanback on
Violet
Sunday, October 4, 1 p.m.
An award-winning musical based on the short story “The Ugliest Pilgrim” by Doris Betts, centering on the life of a disfigured young woman who travels by bus from North Carolina to Oklahoma in search of a cure

Dr. Joyce Inman on
Nickel & Dimed
Sunday, November 1, 1 p.m.
Can a middle-class woman survive working as a maid and living on $7 an hour? A thought-provoking expose into the nation’s economic realities based on Barbara Ehrenreich’s undercover investigation

Dr. Kay Harris on
As You Like It
Thursday, November 19, 6:30 p.m.
Shakespeare’s pastoral comedy of star-crossed and cross-dressing lovers, featuring some of Shakespeare’s most delightful characters

All talks are free and open to the public, courtesy of the Departments of English and Theatre. Talks are at Woods Theatre, and tickets for the plays can be purchased online at artsandlettersnow.usm.edu or at the box office.

THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN MISSISSIPPI
COLLEGE OF ARTS & LETTERS